

THE CONSPIRACY TRACKER

ISSUE #8

The Conquest of Russia

By Kenneth W. Behrendt

On the nights of July 19-20 and July 26-27, 1952, groups of glowing UFOs were observed on radarscopes at Washington National Airport and nearby Andrews Air Force Base as they maneuvered at high speed over the White House and the Capitol. In an effort to calm the resulting alarm over these events, the Air Force held a press conference on July 29 at which Major General John A. Samford, the then Chief of Air Force Intelligence, told reporters that the observed radar blips were merely due to temperature inversions and nothing else. However, before the conference ended, Samford agreed to the statement that "The United States has nothing in its arsenal of weapons, either existing or developmental, that has an unlimited speed and no mass, characteristics attributed to many alleged 'saucers' (emphasis added)."

These comments are interesting because, although apparently a denial of UFO reality, they indicate that as early as 1952 the military/scientific elite of our country had reached the conclusion that what were popularly called "flying saucers" were, indeed mechanical devices which somehow managed to greatly reduce their structural and crew mass to such a great extent that they were no longer appreciably influenced by a planet's gravity or their own inertia. That is, it was already then obvious that extraterrestrial science included the ability to effortlessly overcome the forces of nature whose limitations have precisely defined all of the aspects of our relatively primitive planet's societies and cultures.

It was also apparent to these elite that whoever obtained this incredible technology first would then be in a position to dominate the world and once and for all be able to control the robotic masses whose ever increasing numbers even now pose the greatest threat to the fragile security of the elite. In order to obtain the raw data needed by their scientists to duplicate the alien propulsion technology, Project Blue Book was set up in March of 1952 and continued various levels of operation until December 1969. While the stuporous public thought this group was actively attempting to "solve" the UFO mystery, its true purpose was to pacify reporters inquiring about various regional sightings, spread disinformation on the subject, and channel sighting data through to higher and never seen groups for analysis.

After studying this problem for many years now, this writer is convinced that the elite intelligence controllers of the so-called "free" world (also referred to as the "blue pyramid" in a past article... see "The Final Battle of the Three Pyramids", The Conspiracy Tracker, issue #3, page 6) have reached the conclusion that UFOs are real, are extraterrestrial, and utilize an entirely new field effect (for us!) to negate much of their mass and thus weight and inertia. In my past articles, I have referred to this new field as the "anti-mass field" or AMF and have suggested how it might be generated via a novel application of our well understood electric and magnetic fields. Actually, an alien anti-mass field would be produced by a device I call an "anti-mass field generator" that would be contained within the hull of a UFO and be controlled by its pilot. While the electric and magnetic fields that generate the AMF are entirely contained within the device, the AMF itself radiates out from the AMF generator to greatly reduce the masses of the nearby structures it penetrates. In a sense, the AMF behaves like a field with "polarity" opposite to what our physicists call the gravitational field. (The reader interested in more details on AMF generators is referred to my article titled "The Anti-Mass Field Effect" in The SBI Report, April/May 1982, Vol.4, No. 2, Page 5)

In light of the above, the reader may now realize the strange dilemma our controllers find themselves in. A technology now exists which will allow them to successfully conquer the "closed" societies of earth which are directed by the Soviet Union (previously referred to as the "red pyramid"), yet will, upon its release to the masses, result in the destruction of the blue pyramid's elite controllers! To maintain their control over humanity, they are absolutely obliged to conquer Russia and her satellites to eliminate their threat and then make sure the robotic masses of earth do not obtain this new technology so they will become a threat.

If this is the case, then we are forced to the rather frightening conclusion that many of our government's technological programs are merely "window dressing" designed to mislead the red pyramid's spies into believing that the blue pyramid has only the presently visible technology at its command. In reality, however, what is happening in carefully sealed government laboratories must be quite different from what is visible.

For example, this writer can think of at least two methods by which AMF technology could be used to extract virtually unlimited quantities of energy from matter by converting that matter to energy with nearly 100% efficiency, yet the blue pyramid continues to support a nuclear power industry that, by the most conservative evaluations, is considered expensive, potentially catastrophic, and unnecessary. Also, using craft equipped with AMF propulsion systems, we could easily complete the exploration of our solar system and even begin the surveying of nearby star systems. This is all due to the ability of massless craft to readily break the light barrier to reduce interstellar travel times to a small fraction of a crew member's life span. However, the blue pyramid continues to sponsor a space program that depends upon crude and clumsy rocket power which will only enable us to fill near space with massive satellites and a few manned stations. This program will, in time, become a complete arm of our military elite as they prepare for their final battle with the red pyramid.

So we see from the above that much time and money have been spent in creating a technological facade designed to lull the red pyramid into a false sense of security just before they are overwhelmed. As the world's condition continues to deteriorate due to the continuing increase in population (note: the world's population is currently increasing at the rate of one quarter of a million people per day... that's a net increase equivalent to the population of the entire United States every three years!), the vast untapped resources of the Soviet Union's Ural Mountains and Siberian tundras will be more jealously regarded by the blue pyramid and the need for an all out attack more necessary.

The reader may be surprised to now be told that this eventually necessary all out attack will not be predominantly nuclear in nature. Recently obtained computer studies indicate that if only a few percent of the tens of thousands of nuclear warheads are detonated near ground level in a nuclear exchange, the resulting fire storms and debris injected into the earth's atmosphere will bring on what is called a "nuclear winter." This dust will contain toxic and radioactive gases that will kill all land animal life and will screen out the sun's light so that all land plant life will slowly die. The sudden cooling of our atmosphere will cause massive precipitation so that the northern and southern latitudes will be covered with snow and ice, while latitudes closer to the equator will experience floods of devastating proportions.

Thus, the reader can now see why the blue pyramid's attack against the red pyramid's land forces must be carried out without the use of nuclear weapons. The only question that remains for us to explore is just how this attack might be initiated. From my study of ufology, I am convinced that I can offer a credible scenario for how this attack will be carried out.

In the late 1970's I began to receive reports of triangular UFOs being spotted in the southern part of our state of New Jersey. One witness reported that in August of 1978 he observed a pair of large triangular UFOs flying in formation over Route 33. These craft had a light blue color and appeared to be rocket or jet propelled. Other reports told of the same craft enveloped in white glows and flying at higher altitudes. These glows and the absence of vapor trails indicate the craft can also utilize plasmadynamic drive to propel their virtually massless forms along at very high velocity while eliminating most of the aerodynamic drag on their hulls. Thus, at low speeds they use their rocket or jet motors and at high velocity actually use electric and magnetic fields to rapidly move the air around them over their hulls. In all of the reports I received, the craft appeared to be equilateral triangles with sides about 60 feet in length.

From these reports I am convinced that these UFOs were actually experimental earthly UFOs that were being launched from a secret facility just north of U.S. Naval Air Station near Lakehurst, New Jersey. Perhaps it was hoped that their high altitude testing would not be noticed with all the neighboring air traffic from nearby McGuire Air Force Base on the Fort Dix Reservation. From a description of these craft it appears that they are painted for use during a daylight attack on the Soviet Union. Their blue color would make them indistinguishable against the daylight sky's blue background and their odd shape would give a minimum return of any radar beam scanning the part of the sky they attack from. Perhaps their paint is compounded from the same materials used in microwave ovens to absorb microwaves and this would make them virtually radar invisible as they fly toward their targets.

Now that we realize the attack vehicles that will be used, we must still try to determine the non-nuclear weapons these AMF equipped craft will deliver against red pyramid ground forces.

Initially, I believed that these craft could simply spray their military targets with highly toxic nerve gases that would then begin to chemically breakdown so that a conventional invasion could be accomplished after the biological hazard subsided. However, while this would instantly kill most personnel at the target sites, it would probably not prevent underground personnel in airtight buildings from launching their missiles against the blue pyramid. It is therefore imperative that some sort of ground level non-nuclear explosions be detonated to destroy the underground buildings and hardened missile silos. The explosives employed must, obviously, be exotic and powerful in nature...yet, non-nuclear.

During the last few years, I have kept track of the various chemical materials being transported around our state and have tried to keep informed of the various accidents and spills involving these materials. One material that has figured prominently in my survey is the material known as ethylene dioxide. This material is used by our heavy chemical industry in the making of the widely used plastic known as polyethylene and on the surface this would seem to account for the large number of spills involving this material. Yet, there is another, more sinister, use for this material that would tie in perfectly with the testing of the red pyramid invasion craft in our state.

It is relatively easy to convert the ethylenedioxide molecule into the highly strained ethylene oxide molecule(also known as oxirane or, more technically, as 1,2- epoxyethane). This second compound is an alkene oxide with a highly strained three member ring structure. This curious instability causes this material to release inordinate quantities of explosive energy when the material is vaporized, mixed with air, and then ignited.

Upon further study, I discovered that ethylene oxide can be safely stored as a liquid under pressure, but at normal sea level pressure it will rapidly vaporize at temperatures above 51 degrees F to produce a pleasant smelling gas. Not surprisingly, its use as a powerful explosive has already been discovered and tested by our military elite during the Vietnam War.

During that war, helicopters would drop a single drum of this chemical. At ground level the drum would open and the liquid would form a low hanging cloud around the drum. After the cloud had formed, a time delayed flare attached to the drum would ignite and detonate the cloud. The resulting blast would then completely flatten an area of forest a mile in diameter. The over pressures produced were so powerful that any enemy soldiers or animals in the area would be found with their lungs collapsed and internal organs ruptured. For a while, the North Vietnamese elite were complaining that tactical nuclear weapons were being used against them!

Now from the large size of the blue pyramid craft used, my calculations show that each could easily hold 2000 cubic feet of ethylene oxide liquid. When this quantity of material is dropped on a military target and detonated, it will produce an explosion equivalent to that of 279 tons of dynamite or 0.279 kilotons.

To knock out red pyramid military targets, several craft will be used which will drop their explosive liquid at ground level. Perhaps as many as a dozen craft will overfly each target, drop their loads release time delay flares, and then fly away at high speed using plasmadynamic propulsion so as not to cause premature detonation with rocket engines or jets. The resulting kiloton range ground blasts will produce seismic shocks in the 6.5 to 8.5 range on the Richter scale. This is more than sufficient to destroy underground silos and missiles. Just the over pressures from the blast would destroy most hardened silos. For example, with an over pressure of only 1000 pounds per square inch, a 20 foot diameter concrete silo cover would experience a force of 22,620 tons on its outer surface.

To successfully carry out this attack, the blue pyramid will need several thousands of the triangular craft, but we may rest assured that these craft and the chemicals they will carry are, even now, nearly ready. The remaining problem for the blue pyramid is how to prevent any red pyramid sea and air forces from retaliating.

The neutralization of the sea and air forces of the red pyramid is actually very simple. Already the blue pyramid has planted thousands of "Captor" low yield nuclear torpedoes in the seas of our world. They are housed in tethered underwater silos and, upon radio command, they will be activated and seek out the engine noises of the red pyramid's fleets to destroy them with tactical warheads. The destruction of seagoing fleets with hundreds of these torpedoes will only slightly raise our atmosphere's background radiation count and will not bring on the "nuclear winter" effect. The meager nuclear bomber forces of the red pyramid will be quickly neutralized by air to air missiles fired from conventional jet fighters.

So, the reader may wonder just when this attack will occur and feel it is soon to take place. This is not the case. For the attack described would not prevent all of the Soviet missiles from reaching our soil. To prevent the enormous chaos that just the destruction of a few of our cities would cause, the attack will not occur until after our "high frontier" missile defense system is completed.

This extra armor must be added so that any feeble red pyramid missile response can be neutralized. A system of hundreds of orbiting space bases will be launched and be constructed to use either lasers or "space torpedoes" to destroy any red pyramid missiles that survive the blue pyramid's initial attack. This extra system will take about a decade to complete and thus the conquest of Russia will probably occur in the mid-1990's. The attack will be during daylight hours in the Soviet Union and will occur during the summer months of the northern hemisphere when ground temperatures are above 51 degrees F (i.e., the vaporization temperature of ethylene oxide).

As a postscript to this bizarre invasion plot, I can only remind the reader that during the last few years there have been a number of "mystery explosions" heard throughout the state of New Jersey and recorded on various university barographs. Calculations indicate that these powerful blasts are occurring out at sea east of the southern New Jersey coast and are in the kiloton range, yet Coast Guard ships and planes have found no evidence of radiation. The answer is, of course, obvious to me...the blue pyramid triangle craft are already practicing for their future mission!

Viscera — Suckers and UFO's

By Dennis Stillings

There have been some 10,000 cases of cattle mutilations.(1) Although UFO activity has been associated with these horrors, no one or no thing has been observed actually performing these remarkable operations. The hypothesis of mutilation as part of the rituals of some weird cult is untenable: no tracks are ever found, though many mutilations have occurred in open areas of very soft ground or even snow. The carcasses of the unfortunate animals are frequently drained of blood, and there are puncture wounds in the throat. Scavengers avoid the meat. Lips, ears, tongue, reproductive, and digestive organs are removed. In one case reported in Canada, an unborn calf had been removed from the mother and mutilated without the placental bag being broken.(2) In all cases, the incisions made are remarkable for their laser-like precision, evidence existing that the cuts are actually made intercellularly (3); that is, there is no cell damage around the cuts.

One of the least improbable of a host of improbable theories about the cattle mutilations is that of Tom Bearden. Bearden sees these phenomena as exteriorized psychokinetic effects arising from the collective unconscious due to cold war tensions. He believes that the nature of the mutilations is highly symbolic, reflecting the intention of the Soviet Union to invade the heartland of the United States.(4)

Stopping at the point of "exteriorized PK effects" (as against interiorized PK, where you mutilate yourself!), and leaving aside political considerations, we find, by investigating comparative material in folklore, that forces of mutilation have already been intuited and developed by other cultures.

George Andrews, in his book "Extra-terrestrials Among Us," draws attention to "the killing ones" of Scottish folklore who "drained cattle and humans of their blood." According to this bit of lore, in ancient Scotland the "killing ones" had not been allowed to dominate. However, with the advent of Christianity came the idea that nature had to be perfected and surpassed. As humans lost respect for nature and ceased to believe in the effectiveness of magic, it left them wide open to exploitation by these killing ones, who are responsible for the suicidal error of our creating a technology that actively attacks our biosphere. (5)

Andrews goes on to describe a particularly grotesque accident that involved a carload of Mexican workers on their way to an evening party. As they drove along, a heavy object crashed through the windshield, landing in the laps of the front-seat passengers. It was the upper half of a human body, neatly severed at the waist, with no blood or dangling intestines. The "injuries" could not possibly have been caused by the collision of a human body, even with a speeding automobile. It was as if the body had been dropped from the sky. Later investigators discovered the lower half of the body near the scene of the accident. George Andrews presents this as a possible example of a human mutilation by whatever forces it is that also do the cattle mutilations. I believe it may be otherwise.

A possible early representation of the viscera-sucker, known as Nure Onna. From a Japanese print.

Shortly after reading George's manuscript, I stopped by Walter Uphoff's, on my way to Chicago. Walter showed me a rare copy of a theses done at the University of the Philippines by Maximo D. Ramos, titled "Creatures of Philippine Lower Mythology." (6) I discovered in this work, an extensive discussion of a particularly disgusting creature called the Viscera-Sucker. This demon, which is of human form, flies forth at night, after detaching the lower half of its body, to suck out the entrails, body fluids, and fetuses of its victims. The Viscera-Sucker is also possessed of a thin tongue, of extreme fineness "like a thread of cotton," with which it extracts the organs and fluids. Unfortunately, our large collection of occult illustrations lacks a certified representation of a Viscera-Sucker.

Unfortunately, we know no additional details of the "flying torso" affair. However, we might hypothesize that the Mexican vehicle actually struck a flying Viscera-Sucker as it rose up from its detached lower half.

Let us go further. The cultural backgrounds of Mexicans and Filipinos have certain similarities. The most general, relevant one is that they are not as given over to technology as we are, and they are still in the habit of peopling nature with their demons, rather than the dark corners of their psyches, as is the wont of Western man.

Western Man is, of course, tired and uncertain of his technology. According to Jung, "...the lore about Flying Saucers (is due to) our dimly felt but none the less intense need to reach a new physical as well as spiritual basis beyond our actual conscious world." (7)

c. 200-600 A.D.*

Jung and others have pointed out the need of unconscious spiritual reality to attract our attention by appearing in the technological form represented by UFOs. Jacques Vallee, in his "Passport to Magonia," (8) shows that many reported activities of UFOs, Bigfoot, etc., are technologicistic reworkings of ancient folklore. These things are palatably disguised versions of vampires, goblins, elves, fairies and the rest of the Little People (and big ones).

But a breakdown of this technical guise is in progress. With the ascent of "eco"-consciousness, and the influx into the United States of Third World peoples (an influx that coincides roughly with the period of the cattle mutilations) an increased exteriorization of our internal demons is occurring. In addition, the "spacecraft" manifestations are being biologized; that is, they are becoming more organic. UFOs are being sighted in conjunction with Bigfoot. In the Mexican Viscera-Sucker incident, the technological aspect has been completely eliminated, due to the cultural base.

Now perhaps those "nonexistent" demons who have lived so comfortably among our soft nervous tissues these past 300 years or so, will once again lurk in groves and rocks, glowering at specimens of their lost human host, and setting their snares as in days of yore.

1. Regular newsletters are being published dealing with these phenomena. Conventional explanations range in quality from the absurd to the highly imaginative. So imaginative, in fact, that UFOs seem more likely. Viscera-Suckers seem more likely! Tom Bearden's brief discussion is worth reading (in his "Excalibur Briefing," p.96), and George Andrews' soon-to-be-published work "Extraterrestrials Among Us" contains enough information so that the reader can get as involved as he cares to.

Conspiracy Notes

1. HINCKLEY KNEW BERKOWITZ. The New York Daily News of 7/11/82, printed a letter to writer Jimmy Breslin from John Hinckley wherein Hinckley said he knew Son of Sam mass killer, David Berkowitz. Hinckley wrote: "I know him, of course, before he ever wrote letters. We met when he came out to Colorado and joined the Satanic cult that I was in."

2. BERKOWITZ AND THE DEVIL CULT. The Reno Evening Gazette of 10/25/79 reported: "Yonkers, N.Y.. A Satanic cult that operated in northwest Yonkers may have been linked to the 'Son of Sam' killings. Sources have told the Gannett Westchester Newspapers that cult members aided David Berkowitz, the self-confessed Son of Sam killer, in the murder spree in New York that left six dead and seven wounded in 1976-1977. The apparent link between Berkowitz and the devil worshippers is a primary focus of the newly reopened probe, by the Queens District Attorney's Office, into the killings. Witnesses say there may have been 20 members or more who reportedly staged ritualistic 'Black Masses', sacrificing dogs and drinking their blood. The cult conducted its rituals just a mile from Berkowitz' home, near where a number of German Shepherd dogs have been found slain after what police believe may have been ritualistic sacrifices. Berkowitz, in an interview last year, confirmed that a cult was operating in the area but would not say where it was located, nor give further details. In addition to Berkowitz, the late John Carr, Berkowitz' former neighbor and real-life son of Sam Carr, also was apparently linked to the cult here. Investigators believe John Carr whose 1978 death in North Dakota now is being investigated as a possible homicide, may have been involved with Berkowitz in the 'Son of Sam' killings. Sources recently informed the Gannett Westchester Newspapers that they were told about a month after his August 1977 arrest that a cult in the neighborhood had assisted Berkowitz in some of the shootings. They said an individual claiming to be a former member of the cult related the information to them. Neighborhood youths, who asked not to be identified, told of seeing hooded, torch-bearing cultists on several occasions and of hearing animals scream in pain. Officials say the cult's activities were referred to, indirectly, in the famous 'Son of Sam' letter to New York News columnist Jimmy Breslin in June 1977. The opening sentence talks of 'dog manure, vomit, stale wine, urine, and blood,' an apparent reference to the 'Black Mass' which is a desecration of the Catholic Mass. In a 'Black Mass' the host is frequently smeared with excrement, blood is drunk, participants may vomit on the altar, and urine often is substituted for sacramental wine. Handwriting expert Charles Hamilton said: 'I will say without any qualification whatsoever that David Berkowitz did not write that letter. Whoever wrote that letter to Breslin is possessed of a high degree of urbanity and wit, is well-educated and is able to make words flow together beautifully. Berkowitz can't do it, and his limited education shows in everything he writes. The police were duped into believing Berkowitz wrote it, and then convinced themselves he did it because they wanted to believe he did. But he didn't.' The 'Son of Sam' symbolism in the Breslin letter has been the subject of much study in itself. Recently, Westchester Newspapers discovered a marked similarity between it and a portion of a larger symbol drawn in the 19th century by famous occultist Eliphas Levi to represent a pact with 'descending hierarchies.' Two words appear across the top of the original Levi symbol. They are 'BERKAIAL' and 'AMASARAC.' Berkowitz' nickname is 'BERK.' And 'AMASARAC' written backwards -- a common Satanic ploy -- is CAR-A-SAM-A -- or 'SAM CARR' The Son of Sam shooting that immediately followed the symbol's use in the Breslin letter was at a Queens discotheque. Its name: Elephas." (Our thanks to John Vellutini, editor of the Journal of Vampirology for supplying CT with this clipping.)

3. IBM AND LUCIFER. An IBM insider has written us: "...IBM has designed a special console nicknamed Lucifer, which can be attached to a remote terminal. This ensures that encoded information is inaccessible to a user-intruder. The computer code that will activate this system, has come from a 19th century Masonic alpha-numeric conversion formula: 0-z, 1-t, 2-n, 3-m, 4-r, 5-l 6-s, 7-k, 8-f, 9-p. Social Security System ---The first three numbers to activate your transaction on your new National Identity Card, the number you must have to buy food, will come from the first letter of each word of the above, i.e., Social Security System --SSS =666."

4. FREEMASONS KILLED WASHINGTON? In the June 1984 issue of the Last Trumpet Newsletter, David Meyer writes: "In 1798, George Washington wrote that he had no doubt of the existence of the Illuminati in the United States. Washington had been a 'Master Mason' in the Masonic Lodge, but he left Masonry and renounced it. He was later killed by a surgeon who utilized the somewhat common method of curing sickness, called 'bloodletting.' In the case of

George Washington, he was intentionally bled to death for violating Masonic vows." The Last Triumph Newsletter can be had for one year for a $2.00 donation to: Last Triumph Ministries, P.O. Box 806, Beaver Dam, Wisconsin 53916.

5. JESUITS IN DALLAS. Ex-Jesuit Alberto Rivera states: "I operated behind the shadows in the assassination of John F. Kennedy in Dallas, Texas, under the Parish of the Holy Spirit. In that parish, the assassination...was already scheduled."

6. RITUAL KILLING IN NEW YORK. A loosely organized Satanist cult calling itself the Knights of the Black Circle are being held responsible for the killing of 17 year old Gary Lauwers. The New York Post of 7/6/84 reported: "A 17-year old member of a bizzare devil-worship cult --which dug up graves and used the bodies in Satanic rituals -- was charged yesterday with stabbing another teenager to death in a drug dispute. The cult is believed responsible for violating several graves in the Northport, Long Island area. Police said cult members also killed cats and other animals to use in the rites. 'They held ceremonies at night in the woods,' one officer said. 'They used human bodies and animal bodies. We're not sure what they did with them.' Richard Kasso was charged with murder following the discovery Wednesday of the body of Gary Lauwers, 17, in a wooded area of Northport." On 7/7/84, the Post reported: "At least two others watched as the victim Gary Lauwers, was mutilated and tortured by chanting devil worshippers..." Lt. Robert Dunn is quoted in the Post as saying: "They slaughtered and mutilated the victim -- they cut out his eyes." (CORRECTION: This statement was made by Asst. District Attorney William Keahon.) Keahon further stated: "They took a living and breathing 17-year-old boy as a sacrificial animal, slaughtered and mutilated him."

Before they killed Lauwers, they forced him to say, "I love Satan," The cultists then cut the sleeves off his shirt, and took his socks off --and then burned them. Kasso heard a crow caw, and believed it was the Devil telling him it was time for Lauwers to die. He then stabbed him multiple times. Kasso was taken to Suffolk County Jail -- where he then hung himself on Saturday, 7/7/84.

7. THE DEVILMEN. Charles Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, claimed to be in communication with an entity he called "Lordy." In the book "Satan's Assassins," Brad Steiger and Warren Smith write: "Is it possible that Guiteau might have been controlled by such an unthinkable secret society of demonic individuals whom Lee Harvey Oswald called the 'devilmen?' According to those who knew Oswald before that inglorious weekend in November of 1963, he spoke often of 'an international league of people' who had let the devil possess them so that they might do his Satanic bidding. These 'Devilmen' were, in effect, a secret world power, with Members of key positions within each world government."

8. MIB IN DALLAS. Concerning the Kennedy assassination, R.B. Cutler, editor of the Grassy Knoll Gazette, writes: "There is a man, seen in the early Z-frames, standing on the infield grass, who one researcher believes fired 22 shots from two automatic pistols. The man is tall, erect, the grass area behind him is light, and he is dressed in a black cape and hat." The Grassy Knoll Gazette is devoted to studying and investigating the assassinations of our times. A subscription is $10.00. Write:

9. EVANGELICAL ASSASSINS? Conspiracy researcher John Judge writes: "World Vision is an evangelical, anti-Communist, missionary operation around the globe. It is part of an 'ecumenical federation' in Evanston, Illinois, which includes far-right churches like Carl McIntyre's International Council of Christian Churches. It claims the conversion to 'born-again' Christianity of Rios Montt and Forbes Burnham (on the evening before the Jonestown massacre), two heads of government where CIA operations and mass murder have taken place in recent years. World Vision has headquarters in Redwood Valley, California, and it's members there helped to 'convert' Jim Jones in Ukiah. Christian Century Magazine revealed World Vision's USAID and CIA/DIA links in S.E. Asia during Vietnam War. USAID (CIA front) still provides 5% of the visible support. Main function of World Vision is work in 'refugee camps', especially among 'refugees from Communism.' Samaritan's Purse, World Medical Relief, World Vision and other groups repopulated the Jonestown site with 1,200 Laotians after the massacre. They target 100,000 for resettlement to the area.

These same people were used by American Green Beret's and CIA to grow the bulk of the world's opium in the 'Golden Triangle. World Vision was administering the refugee camps at Sabra and Shatilla when the fascist Phalange murdered the Palestinians there. They control the refugee camps along the Honduran border where CIA mercenaries against Nicaragua and El Salvadoran revolutionaries were recruited. They are also in charge of the Haitian and Cuban refugee camps in the US. In the Cuban camps they have hired Alpha 66 and Omega 7 teams to run the camps, and recruit mercenaries against Cuba. Their mistreatment of Cubans who refused political indoctrination led to riots in several camps. At Ft. Chaffee, Arkansas, World Vision employed Mark David Chapman (assassin of Beatle John Lennon--Editor) to work in the Haitian Refugee Center, he later shot John Lennon. On the board of directors of World Vision, and tied to their water project in Rios Montt's Guatemala is John W. Hinckley, Sr. His son shot at Ronald Reagan. Hinckley, Sr., was in charge of a World Vision mission in Denver. John Hinckley, Jr. had a 'double', a Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania man named Richardson who had trailed Hinckley's patterns and locations in Colorado (where Hinckley met David Berkowitz--Editor), New Haven, Connecticut (even wrote love letters to Jody Foster, and bought a 38 caliber pistol to 'kill Reagan'. Richardson, arrested in New York, had been a follower of Carl McIntyre's in Florida and New Jersey. World Vision appears to be an elaborate cover for the recruitment, training and placement of assassins worldwide." 10. LOVECRAFT'S BOOK. In either the autumn or winter, Arkham House publishers will release a new book titled "Lovecraft's Book" written by Richard A. Lupoff. The ad for the book says: "In December 1926, the German-American propagandist George Sylvester Viereck sent a letter to Howard Phillips Lovecraft, Viereck's proposal was a simple one: if Lovecraft would write a political tract, a sort of American "Mein Kampf", Viereck would assure the publication of a volume of Lovecraft's stories as well. Through Viereck's maneuvering, Lovecraft was drawn into a web of intrigue involving Benito Mussolini's overseas agents, the Friends of New Germany, and such nativist radical groups as the Ku Klux Klan...Ranged around HPL and struggling to keep him out of Viereck's thrall were Lovecraft's estranged wife Sonia...and various members of the Lovecraft Circle. Compiled from recently discovered correspondence and augmented by information obtained from government archives under the Freedom of Information Act, "Lovecraft's Book" presents a hitherto undisclosed chapter in the life of the renowned Providence fantasist." The book will be $15.95, and available from Arkham House Publishers, P.O. Box 546, Sauk City, Wisconsin 53583.

11. KAL 007. R.B. Cutler of the Grassy Knoll Gazette writes: "With Korean Airline Flight 007 back in the news last week our comment at the time of the incident has been dusted off in order to bring you up to date...Eleven days after the Soviet fighter pilot shot down what he believed was an enemy reconnaissance plane, illegally penetrating a sensitive area of Mother Russia, we aired a question designed to make our listeners think...it went something like this: let's assume the shoe's on the other foot..instead of an unidentified aircraft off course and headed over west Kamchatka, there's an unidentified aircraft off course and headed west over Nova Scotia...instead of flying towards Washington, D.C., it's due over Cape Ann in ten minutes...it's nighttime, the plane is flying without lights, it doesn't answer radio challenges and pays no attention to wing wiggle-wagging...our question is: how far will this plane get before it's shot down? Danvers? Wellesley? Chicopee? Albany? A couple of listeners called in and said they thought it would never make the coast...It was most rewarding to find New Englanders who could not only think about and see the other side of the coin, but also had the courage to come out and say so publicly...this, at the time when Reagan and Company was bad-mouthing the Soviets and breaking out the crying towels in Washington DC...anyone who whispered CIA-did-it was branded communist and worse...Now, nine months later, we find ourselves somewhat vindicated by a Boston Globe piece about an article in Defense Attache, a respected British publication...this article supports the thesis that Flight 007 was indeed a US intelligence provocation..the Soviets read it correctly and dealt with it as expected... 269 lives were sacrificed to put pressure on Congress to vote the MX missile as defense against the evil Russian regime... Incredibly the article points out that the space shuttle Challenger monitored the Russians' scrambling response to this intrusion of their homeland...CIA challenge it certainly was...007's flight was deliberately criss-crossed with that of an RC-135 reconnaissance plane to confuse the Russians' identification of the blips on their radar screens...It makes one wonder what space shuttle Discoverer will discover and how many lives will be lost on that trip...This time our comment is not a question..this time it's an exhortation, a desperate plea for common sense...It's high time the CIA Professional War Machine's adolescent, trigger-happy challenges and discoveries, it's mini-wars in Lebanon and Central America, it's annihilation of the People's Government of Grenada, was stopped...it's high time this short-sighted, arrogant posture was tackled below the knees by the peaceful, responsible voters in this country....Just remember, the taller they stand in August, the harder they fall in November."

12. BRAM THE RIPPER. We highly recommend Issue #3 of the Journal of Vampirology, which features an excellent article on Jack the Ripper. Editor John Vellutini adds another name to the list of possible suspects -- Bram Stoker, author of the famous novel "Dracula." Stoker joins such other names as suspects as James K. Stephen, the Duke of Clarence (Prince Eddy), Sir William Gull, and Montague John Druitt (and several more). In regards to Stoker, the following may be kept in mind. (a) In his book "The Spear of Destiny," Trevor Ravenscroft lists Stoker as a member of the Golden Dawn. (b) The Golden Dawn was formed in the year 1888 -- the same year that the Ripper murders occurred. (c) Stoker was in London at the time of the murders except for one (and most appear not to even consider this victim a Ripper victim). (d) Some sources (See CT #1) believe that the Golden Dawn developed out of the Quatuor Coronati Masonic Research Lodge, which was founded by Sir Charles Warren -- the man most responsible for the cover-up in the Ripper affair. Issue #3 of the Journal of Vampirology may be obtained for $2.00 from: John Vellutini, P.O. BOX 881631, San Francisco, CA. 94188-1631. A 5 issue subscription is $10.00.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Received issue #6 of the Conspiracy Tracker the other day. The mention of Thomas Creech in the article "Henry Lee Lucas and the Hands of Death" struck a responsive chord in my memory banks. Rummaging through my detective magazines, I discovered the source of this vague recollection. Written by Franklyn Sharpe, the article was entitled "Satan Cultist Claims He Killed 42!" and was featured in the March 1976 issue of True Detective.

In the article Creech claimed he was both a syndicate hit man and a member of Satanic cult (not named) which practiced human sacrifice. He stated he had witnessed numerous such sacrifices at satanic lodges located in Ogden, Utah, Tulsa, Oklahoma and Wichita, Kansas. "They've got clubs like that all over the country," Creech testified in court. "I have heard about and could tell you about devil worshipers who have human sacrifice rituals in California, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and a lot of other places." (This four state nexus has been the haunt of numerous mass murderers in recent years.)

Creech also mentioned a ranch near Los Angeles in Ventura County, where he had personally witnessed 15 persons slain and sacrificed in rituals devoted to devil worship. He spoke of a huge burial ground where more than 100 persons had been interred following their death by sacrifice. (Authorities in California later investigated these allegations and found nothing incriminating at the ranch site.)

Although Creech freely confessed to a multitude of murders, he denied killing the two itinerant psinters for which he was placed on trial in Wallace, Idaho, in Oc. 1975. Get this though. Creech claimed that at the time the double murder was committed, he had been enroute to Denver, Colorado, on a contract assignment to assassinate Senatorial hopeful Gary Hart! Creech's alibi received confirmation from an unexpected source. Apparently, prior to his arrest, an informant had alerted Colorado authorities that Creech had a contract to kill Gary Hart in the event that the Democrat won the election against his opponent, three-term Republican Senator Peter Dominick. A loaded rifle was found on the rooftop of a hotel across the street from where Hart later held his victory celebration.

I also vaguely recall (but the source alludes me) that Creech also claimed that the numerous cattle mutilations, so frequent at this time, were satanic related.

Hope this information can be of some help to you.

The War and World-Servers

By Inquire Within

From The Patriot (March 5, 1942)

Close study of the present world war reveals two outstanding objectives: the destruction of Christian civilisation and its champions, Britain and the British Empire; the formation of a New World Order and Federation of all Nations, universal enslavement of the people. Here is what two well-known Jewish writers have said. 1. The Communist Henri Barbusse, in his book "Jesus," announced to civilisation, issue of Christianity, that it was going to die. "The days are near. The old world is about to die ...I say to thee that we are the true and sole fulfillers of the law, of the final struggle for the Kingdom of God and eternal life which is the immortal glory of the conquering Jew."

2. In his book "Anti-Semitism," Bernard Lazare explains this Messianic dream: "Without the law, without Israel to practice it the world would cease to be, God would return to the void; the world would only know happiness under the universal empire of this law, the Empire of the Jews."

Let us examine two groups of "World Servers." Both are infected with ancient cabalistic gnosticism, both are inspired by some invisible hierarchy of supermen or initiates. 1. Since 1934, Mrs. A.A. Bailey, New York Theosophist and occultist --has formed a world-wide group of World-Servers, as directed by the unseen hierarchy, whose work is to restore world balance and bring about international understanding. They are also instructed to manifest the "Kingdom of God" on earth. As their god is merely the electro-magnetic life force this means world illuminism binding men's minds together in unity, creating passive instruments through whom the hierarchy can work to establish the "Coming World Order" or Federation of Nations, made possible, Mrs. Bailey says, by the sufferings and tragedies of the peoples through Hitler's fanatical war and world ambitions. Through these world-servers, 46 countries have come under the influence of their solar "Christ and his Church." 2. Since 1935, a world-servers group known as "Avatar" (solar Christ impulse) has been formed by the Dutchman calling himself "John James", his object being to form a New Constitutional Order, a New World State --Christocracy -- which strongly suggests Socialism. He believes that humanity is inspired and directed by invisible initiates. His God is the universal life-force which permeates the entire universe and all nature, pantheistic and illuminising. He teaches that man is the small universe, that is the microcosm reflecting the macrocosm or universal light or life-force, as the Cabalists say "As above so below."

Today all cabalistic and subversive movements are oriented towards World Federal Union, and instinctively we ask what is the difference between this and Lenin's dream of a "World Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics"?

TWILIGHT OF THE GODS. a new book by Michael Baran. From the book's jacket: "Are we related to 'gods' who once ruled over the earth and possessed powers far beyond the capabilities of our present technology? Do such gods still survive beneath the earth's surface? If so, why haven't they revealed themselves? Twilight of the Gods explores the considerable evidence that a world-shaking catastrophe occurred about 11,000 B.C., presenting the author's intriguingly documented model of a fiery, worldwide cataclysm that submerged the Pacific island-continent of Lemuria and devastated her 'sister' land in the Atlantic, Atlantis. The book offers persuasive substantiation for the theory that long-forgotten 'superpower' civilizations once existed on the earth's surface. Their leaders wrought horrific destruction with the secret power at their command, causing calamities that changed the course of history and led to their own demise." The book covers the Biblical Deluge, the sinking of Atlantis, the Bermuda Triangle, the UFO enigma, and pinpoints the location of the Garden of Eden. "Twilight of the Gods" is available for $10.50 postpaid from: Exposition Press, Smithtown, N.Y. 11787-2120.
